

Medical Writing and Publication Planning

Six Degrees Medical

Communicate.
Consult.
Train.

Six Degrees Medical is a leader in global medical communications.

For over a decade, our medical communication services have helped clients optimize their brand, disease and corporate objectives. Building client relationships that last, our team brings intuitive strategy, tactical innovation and executional excellence to every project.

Our highly experienced team of medical and communications professionals truly understand your objectives and the science and data behind them.

We apply this knowledge to develop creative, insightful and targeted communications that make science meaningful to the target audience. Our team effectively collaborates with clients, KOLs and stakeholders, to assist with presentation flow, development and speaker preparations. From speaker programs and slide deck creation to developing medical and sales rep toolkits, we make drug, disease or brand stories relevant, clear and compelling. We also partner with our clients to develop strategic publication plans and to support authors to facilitate abstract and manuscript development. Our innovative and well-tested process helps reduce publication development timelines and enhances probability of target journal acceptance.

We are an effective and collaborative partner in medical content development and help fill in knowledge gaps.

Medical writing and publication planning must not only meet stringent good clinical practice standards and good publication practices – it must also tell a scientific story in a relevant and compelling way. It is centered on generating content that engages, instructs and tells a story with medical evidence that is truly immersive and visually impactful.

At Six Degrees Medical, we don't just write content, we are redefining the medical writing landscape. We ensure the stories we help to tell leave a lasting impression; the audience retains a high proportion of the information presented and is affected. Our collaborative approach produces superior results and lasting partnerships.

Our medical writing services include:

- Standalone slide decks
- White papers
- Clinical summaries
- Literature searches and reports
- Medical and sales rep slide decks and toolkits
- PI & label updates
- Strategic publication planning
- Journal identification and liaison
- Abstract and manuscript development support and facilitation

“Six Degrees Medical is able to provide high quality and effective medical writing expertise. They have not only provided medical content writing but have also demonstrated strong design and document management capabilities.”

ABOUT US

Our expertise has been sought after in 34 countries around the world in over 40 therapeutic areas. We come from 12 industries, 11 cultural backgrounds and speak 20 languages. Based in North America and Europe, we bring local perspective and international expertise to every project. Our clients see us as more than just vendors, but as partners invested in their success!

We create learning.

CONTACT

+1 647 725 0073

info@sixdegreesmed.com

www.sixdegreesmed.com

 @SDMCanada

 linkedin.com
/six-degrees-medical-consulting